

Apple Tree through the Seasons

WINTER

The branches of the apple trees are bare.

There are tightly closed buds on the twigs.

Under the fallen leaves and snow on the ground, seeds ('pips') from the fallen apples may be sprouting or germinating – the start of a new apple tree!